HOSPITAL TO JOIN WITH GARFIELD IN MEDICAL CENTER

First Steps Taken Toward Union Of G. W. and Garfield Institutions

MEDICAL SCHOOL TO BE ERECTED ON NEW SITE

Extensive Research Laboratories Will be Founded; to Build New Cancer Hospital

The initial step toward the establishment of a great medical center in the city of Washington which is expected to rank among the highest in the country was completed Saturday, January 22, when papers providing for the amalgamation of the George Washington University Hospital, Garfield Memorial Hospital, and the Washington Home for Foundlings were formally signed.

Under the provisions of the agreement, George Washington University will erect a new medical school building on the grounds of Garfield Hospital, and the Washington Home for Foundlings will build a cancer hospital and extensive cancer research laboratories. The work now being done by the George Washington University Hospital will be transferred to the new center.

Efforts to effect such a union have been made in the past, but have proved fruitless. Conferences extending through several months are responsible for the final achievement. Arrangements will soon be made for the erection of the Medical School building on the new site. The George Washington Hospital will continue on its present site until both the hospital and Medical School property, located on H Street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth Streets, are sold.

To Develop Preventive Medicine

It is expected that two other prominent institutions, each specializing in distinct departments of medical science, will join the group, thus creating in Washington a medical center equipped not only to treat diseases, but to conduct extensive research work in preventive medicine with remarkable opportunities for success.

The ultimate aim of the plan is to make the National Capital one of the centers of the world's medical development. Such a "hospital university" is expected to rank immediately with the greatest medical centers in the nation, and will eventually have research institutions of world renown.

The nurses' home of the hospitals will be combined, and upon graduation nurses will receive certificates in the name of the Washington Medical Center Nurses' Training School, instead of in the name of the respective hospitals. The combination of the hospitals will afford the nurses an opportunity to extend their studies in directions that otherwise would be impossible.

MATHEMATICAL FRESHMAN SPENDS HOURS FIGURING FUTILITY OF EXAMS

Industrious Reporter Discovers Appalling Waste Is Due to Examination Week in the University; Total of 27,500 Sleepless Nights Spent by G. W. Students Last Week in Preparing for Mid-Year Tests

By HERBERT E. ANGEL

Beside the fact that he couldn't have any dates during examination week, and that he didn't see anyone playing bridge in the Hatchet office, and that a black cat walked across his path just before every exam, and that he flunked every one of said exams, a freshman who is mathematically inclined, notices many important things around the campus during his first taste of the seamy side of college life—examination time.

Take for example the plain blue-bound examination book. It has 16 pages. Each page has 19 lines on which to write. Say that the average student writes a full book on each examination. That makes 80 pages of writing. For Mr. Average Student carries or drags five subjects. Then the student writes 1,520 lines of so-called information.

Each line of writing is approximately six inches long. In such a line of writing the pencil or pen moves up and down enough to make a straight line five times the length of a true line, or thirty inches of script. This is two and one-half feet. Multiply this by the number of lines, and you have 3,750 feet of writing, or over seven times the height of the Washington Monument, for each individual person.

This distance is about 5-7 of a mile. There are 5,500 students in the George Washington University. Their total mileage in writing would be around 3,925 4-7 miles. This is enough to cross the country from New York to San Francisco, and then go from Washington to Baltimore and back again 125 times.

Then consider the ink. About half

THE EVIL EYE?

A George Washington medical student who would not divulge his name, tells the following story on himself:

It seems that a colored woman came to the G. W. clinic the other day to have her eyes examined. Our friend made a cursory examination, remarking, "The right one seems better than the left."

"It ain't no better, doctor," the patient replied. "It jes' looks that-a-way. It's a glass eye."

It was. Imitation blood vessels had been cleverly traced on the eye by the manufacturer, and it is said that several eye specialists were deceived by its likeness to the real article.

BAGPIPERS PLAY AT BENEFIT FETE

University Hospital Benefit on Feb. 22 Will Be a "Scotch Birthday Party"

REPLICA OF MT. VERNON

Singer of Scotch Folk Songs, Champion Highland Dancer Will Be Among Entertainers

Plans for the annual benefit on February 22 for George Washington University Hospital which is to be called "a birthday party given by General and Mrs. Washington to their Scottish neighbors at Alexandria and Dumfries" and which is to be held in the gymnasium building of the University, 210 H Street, are progressing rapidly under the direction of a committee headed by Mrs. Charles W. Richardson, with Mrs. Eugene Byrnes as chairman of the program.

Baldwin Allan-Allen, "the Harry Lauder of America," will be heard in Scottish folk songs, accompanied by Roger MacGregor at the piano and Angus McMillin Fraser, said to be the champion Highland dancer in this country, will contribute not only dances but also pipe music of Scotland.

The background for the entertainment will be a scene which is to be an exact replica of the banquet hall at Mt. Vernon, and is to be reproduced on the gymnasium stage by Prof. Norris I. Crandall and the students in his department of George Washington University.

Prominent Washington women will take part in the scene with historically correct costumes and properties.

The officers of the board of lady managers for the hospital in addition to Mrs. Frederick N. True, president, include Mrs. Charles W. Richardson, Mrs. Charles H. Tompkins and Mrs. Thomas S. Wiles as vice presidents; Miss Mary Brickenstein, recording secretary; Mrs. Otis D. Swift, corresponding secretary; Mrs. S. E. Lewis, treasurer, and Mrs. W. Mack Stowell, assistant treasurer.

LEMONITE QUINT WINS AND LOSES IN TWO BATTLES

Villanova Overcomes Colonials In Listless Game Before Examination Week

TEAM WORKS SMOOTHER AS COACH SHIFTS LINEUP

Hatchettes Score Impressive Victory, Swamping Randolph-Macon Outfit by 30-15 Count

On the Saturdays flanking examination week at George Washington University the Colonials met and waged battle with two fast college combinations. Villanova journeyed down from the wilds of Pennsylvania to trample over a listless and inaccurate home team by a 31-21 score, on January 22. The Lemonites came back after the mid-years to pounce upon the light Randolph-Macon dribblers from Ashland, Virginia, last Saturday evening, to score their most impressive victory, 39-15.

Aside from the fact that the game with the Yellow Jackets was the high-score encounter for the Colonials it furnished several other interesting angles which pleased the small but appreciative gallery.

Not until four minutes had elapsed since the opening whistle was either team able to ring up a score. Oddly enough the first point to be made was credited to Jimmy Carey, brilliant Hatchette guard, who sank a free toss as a result of a foul registered by Cline Barton, visiting forward.

Metzler Rescues Ball

This same Barton in his eagerness to stop the redoubtable Carey was nearly knocked out when the pair collided. Time had to be called for the little red head to regain his wind.

Near the end of the first half "Slim" Hunter, Virginia center, broke through the sturdy Lemon defense and attempted a neat snobird. The ball left his hands labeled as a two-pointer. It reached the rim of the basket, see-sawed a while and finally stopped and rested between the iron hoop and the backboard. Referee Metzler was obliged to rescue the elusive sphere amid the cheers of the spectators.

Lemon Revamps Lineup

The Ashlanders employed the dribbling form of offensive while the locals depended on short passes to carry them into favorable scoring positions and from the score one might say that the passing game is by far the better.

The Jackets were held to eight points in the first half and to but seven in the last half. Altogether they dropped in only five baskets from scrimmage, Hunter registering two; Sheffey, one; Captain Lewis, one, and Selby, one.

Coach Jimmy Lemon revamped his lineup sending Fred Wallace, acting captain, and "Red" Allshouse to the forward posts in place of Alton Bland and Henry Sapp. Haun, "the smiling one," again got the call for the tap-off. Jimmy Carey convinced his coach that he should remain at guard. Cecil Perry filled the vacancy left at the other guard position by Wallace.

This change worked miracles.

It produced a smooth-working combination that brushed aside all opposition to score a decisive victory in a game in which the outcome was never in doubt.

Villanova Wins

In a speedy, hard-fought contest where both teams were guilty of rough play, the Villanova Wildcats clawed their way to a 31-21 decision over the Colonial quint Saturday night, January 22.

Saturday's victory was the second of their southern trip for Villanova. The Pennsylvanians downed Loyola, in Baltimore, the evening before by a 32-18 count. The fray with Villanova was the only game played by the Colonials during the week, however, as Roanoke, who was scheduled to meet George Washington last Wednesday, was forced to cancel their northern trip due to a conflict in schedule.

Close guarding and rapid passing marked the play of Villanova from the outset. As the game went on, both teams speeded up and by that very speed committed numerous personal fouls which marred the enjoyment of the battle for the spectators.

G. W. STUDENTS PASS BAR EXAMS

53 George Washington Lawyers Two of Them Women, Are Successful in Test

TO BE ADMITTED IN MARCH

Those Who Have Passed Must Also Qualify as to Moral Character

Fifty-three, George Washington law students, out of a total of 139, who passed the examination for the District Bar held last December, were successful, according to the announcement recently made by John Paul Earnest, chairman of the examining committee of the Bar Association, and Ralph Given, secretary.

Although about 30 per cent of those who passed were products of George Washington's Law School, it was impossible to ascertain the number of Colonial lawyers who took the test. The total number who took the exam was 236, of which number a little more than half were victorious.

It does not necessarily follow that those successful in the mental test will be admitted to the bar, for under the present rules of admission, candidates must appear in person before one or more of the examiners and satisfy him of their moral qualifications. Admission to the bar will take place early in March and those admitted at this time will be able to practice law this spring.

Of the George Washington students who passed the exam, two were women. They are, Miss Dorothy Moncre and Mrs. Pearl H. Collier. Mrs. Collier is the wife of Prof. Charles S. Collier, instructor at the Law School.

The following are the George Washington students who passed the examination: Quincy D. Adams, Roy P. Anderson, Ralph A. Barney, Forrest F. Bartl, Louis Berkowitz, John G. Birks, F. Rust Bishop, Robert W. Buckner, H. Scott Byerly, John F. Claggett, Milford H. Clark, Pearl Hensley Collier, Allen R. Crozier, Edwin O. Raue, Frank De Nunzio, Willard W. Gatchell, J. Foster Hagman.

ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR WINTER CONVOCATION

Eighty Students Will Receive Degrees February 22; Charles Warren to Deliver Address

Approximately eighty students, from all colleges of the University, will receive degrees at the annual Mid-winter Convocation, February 22, at Memorial Continental Hall. Twenty-two of the candidates for degrees are from Columbian College, eleven from Teachers College, twenty-nine from the Law School, two from the Medical School, and ten are graduate students.

Of the candidates four had completed the requirements for graduation at the end of Summer School, 1926, but, due to the abolition of Fall Convocation, had to wait till February.

Former Assistant Attorney General Charles Warren, an authority on the Constitution and author of several works on this subject, will deliver the leading address. Further plans for the Convocation have not yet been revealed.

ABRAMS NAMED JUNIOR LEADER; TICKET IS SPLIT

After Two-Month Lapse, Results of Elections Are Made Public

BETTY BRANDENBURG, RUTH NEWBURN ELECTED

Latter Beats Virginia Blackstone for Office of Secretary, Splitting Ticket; Fake Ballots

According to the announcement made last week by Professor Doyle, officers of the Junior Class of Columbian College for 1927 are: Kenneth Abrams, president; Betty Brandenburg, vice president; Ruth Newburn, secretary; Alice Ranck, treasurer, and Morris Larson, sergeant-at-arms. The outstanding thing about these results is the fact that an entire "informal ticket" was not elected.

In making this announcement, Professor Doyle called attention to the discrepancy between the number of votes cast (349) and those found to be legal (173). A number of votes that had to be thrown out were cast by students uncertain of their status. In order to clear up this question definitely, Dean Hodgkins has issued a statement to the effect that a Senior is a student whose courses for which he is registered, if all passed, are sufficient to give him a degree; and, on the basis of earned credits at the opening of the academic year, a junior is one who has 65 to 84 credits, inclusive, a sophomore, 25 to 54, inclusive, and a freshman one who has less than 24 hours to his credit.

Professor Doyle, who assumed the task of checking the results of the balloting at the request of the class, found himself confronted with considerable difficulty in checking those ballots about which there was any doubt of legality, whether because of illegible signatures, erasures, or for any other cause. It required a great deal of correspondence, in some cases as many as four or five letters, before it was possible to get in touch with the students signing such ballots. More than 100 were checked in this way by the signers personally in the office of Professor Doyle, and in a great many cases erasures occurring on the ballots were acknowledged by the voters as having been their own. "I am sure," said Professor Doyle, when interviewed, "that the result announced represents the will of the class."

The suggestion has been made that elections be held in the spring for the following year, with the exception, of course, of the Freshman class elections. It is believed that this would be an improvement, since it would be possible at that time of the year to get an accurate official list from the Registrar's office against which the ballots could be checked. The use of a balloting booth would ensure the desired secrecy.

A long delay has ensued in the case of the Freshman election likewise, where there still remain some thirty-five ballots to be checked, although more than 100 have been gone over so far. All of the thirty-five have been notified, some of them more than once, and Professor Doyle asks that they respond as soon as possible so the results may be announced before the middle of February.

PRIZES AWARDED HERE BY THE BEAUX ARTS JURY

Carrol Meigs, president of the local temple of Scarab, and Joseph Abel have been awarded second medals, and Athol Edwards first of the several honorable mentions by the jury in the recent Beaux Arts judgment on the Mayan temple architectural problem. Major George Oakley Totten, one of the country's leading authorities on Mayan architecture, was a member of the jury. These problems will be exhibited in the New York Beaux Arts museum from February 6 to 8.

TOLSON WITHDRAWS; LAW BALLOT SETTLED

W. J. Wilkins Named Senior Class President When Other Contestant Retires from Race

Following the withdrawal of Clyde Tolson from the presidential race of the Senior Class at the Law School, W. J. Wilkins has been declared president of the class.

The original election for this office was held sometime ago and resulted in a tie consisting of 31 votes for each of the two candidates. Announcement of a new election to be held in the near future, brought forth a dispute over certain allegedly fraudulent ballots which had been cast.

In an attempt to arbitrate matters officers of the Law School met with the two candidates in conference last week. Tolson at this time decided that rather than cause further discussion he would withdraw from the race.

This action left Wilkins as the sole remaining candidate and made a reelection unnecessary.

Other officers who were elected on the first ballot are: Margaret Conlyn, vice president; Phoebe Morrison, secretary; G. L. Woodruff, treasurer; Senate, Hazel Newton, Cameron Sherwood, and Clifton Moore.

RECEPTION GIVEN BY COLUMBIAN WOMEN

The Columbian Women gave a reception at Rauscher's January 4, which was very successful. Professor Elmer Louis Kayser made the presentations. Next to him was Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, president of Columbian Women. Mrs. Doyle presented the guests to President and Mrs. William Mather Lewis. Undergraduates under Miss Marguerite Daly assisted the hostesses. Over five hundred were present.

The University Glee Club sang under the direction of Robert Harmon, with Mrs. Harmon at the piano. This was followed by two specialty dances, the Charleston and Black Bottom.

PI DELTS ARE ALL WRONG, SAY GIRLS; FORM "RED-HEAD CLUB" TO STOP SLURS

Group of Indignant George Washington Co-eds Organize Flaming-Topped Society to "Glorify the Long-Haired, Red-Headed Woman"; Hennaed Damsels Are Not Eligible For Membership in Newly-Founded Cult

By "STRAW BERRY"

With "the uplifting of the fair name of Titian and all that it connotes, and the future prevention of such slurs as that cast on their coloring at the recent Pi Delta Epsilon convention, where preference for blondes or brunettes was voted, and red-headed ladies were absolutely ignored," as their object, a group of fiery-tressed co-eds have formed a club composed exclusively of "red-heads."

The charter members of the organization have finally been prevailed upon to disclose their identity. They are Dorothy Latimer, Anne McCorkle, Catherine Magill, and Katherine Bannerman.

The requirements for membership have been announced as follows:

- "1. Each member shall be a member of the sophomore, junior, or senior class in good standing.
- "2. Each member shall have long hair.
- "3. Each member shall have red hair.
- "(Hennaed beauties, no matter what their charms, will not be considered, so it won't do any good to dye, girls.)
- "Annabelle Lloyd, founder of the idea, has been offered honorary membership as a reward for her help in the 'glorification of the long-haired, red-headed woman.'
- "The organization has not yet selected its official name, and any suggestions as to a suitable title will be received by its members.

THE NEW MEDICAL CENTER

The recent alliance between the George Washington University Hospital and Medical School, Garfield Hospital, and the Washington Home for Foundlings, marks a new departure in the medical circles of the Nation's Capital. The idea is by no means new, having been successfully tried out in several large cities. But it remained for those in charge of these institutions to give Washington a definite beginning in this direction.

There seems to be a marked tendency toward the "Medical Center" plan. Columbia University, allied with the Presbyterian Hospital and several other institutions, has put this idea of co-operation into effect in New York, with the result that a twenty million dollar medical center is nearly completed. This will serve as a nucleus for a vast medical "colony," comprising separate units which cover practically the entire field of medicine and its allied sciences. What is sought by both hospitals and schools is better opportunity for cooperative service. The outstanding advantages of this plan are apparent even to the layman.

Those who brought about this definite beginning of the medical center idea in Washington, the heads of the institutions involved, who, through a long series of conferences, surmounted the obstacles which stood in the way, are due the highest praise and the fullest measure of cooperation.

THE JUNIOR MESS SETTLED

Finally order came out of chaos and the result of the Junior election has been made known. The fact that the election was ever fairly held or fairly counted is due mainly to the good offices of Professor Doyle.

Something is wrong with the system. Evidently many people are hazy on their status, not knowing whether they are sophomores, juniors or seniors. The mess this year, which resulted in such delay that a junior prom will probably not be held at all, must not be repeated. It was an injustice to Mr. Abrams and Mr. Brookhart and to all juniors.

The Hatchet does not pretend to offer a solution, other than to suggest that persons be compelled to prove their status by some certificate from the registrar's office before being given a ballot at all. Also that a deadline be drawn somewhere about the polls, inside which campaigning will not be permitted.

SENIOR WRITE-UPS

The "blurbs" which have long been the perennial accomplishment of the college senior's photograph in the year book came in for considerable discussion a few days ago at the University of North Carolina when the editor of this year's annual decreed that these traditional write-ups would be left out of the book he was editing. The editor claimed that these sketches were "a simple appeal to flattery, gave no true estimate of the individual, meant nothing, used up much valuable space, and have already been discarded by leading colleges."

No sooner had the edict been pronounced than a near revolt occurred in the class. They would not be the "goat" in discarding an old tradition, they cried. More than this, the sketches contained rare bits of current history that ought to be handed down to posterity. The editor, finding a good sized war on his hands and being a man of peace, immediately called a class meeting with the result that his edict was overwhelmingly defeated.

Our annual at George Washington dropped the system of personal write-ups a year or so ago with very good results. A good personal sketch was hard to obtain from the majority of the graduating class, since the element of personal contact is not nearly so high in our school as it is in a college where the majority of the students live in dormitories. The present method of listing what the graduate has accomplished while in college seems to us to be the better plan.

At last the dreadful sleepless nights of cramming and black coffee are over and the entire campus is celebrating with a host of parties, teas and dances.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity held an informal dance at the chapter house in celebration of the end of mid-years, on Saturday evening, January 29. A special band led by Ken Tetter put over some "mean medley." The Hooper Brothers rendered some new dance interpretations.

The Sigma Kappas entertained alumni and friends with a tea in the sorority rooms yesterday. Mrs. Clarence Graham, Helen Kellogg and Laverne Crabtree presided at the tea table.

Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity held a peppy dance at the chapter house Saturday night and are planning another for next Saturday night.

Chi Omega fraternity entertained several rushees at luncheon on Tuesday.

The A. banquet held at the Washington Hotel just before examination week proved very successful. Representative Lanham was the principal speaker of the evening and a play by the pledges proved a pleasant surprise. After the banquet the entire chapter adjourned to the K. A. house for a dance.

President Lewis spoke at the January luncheon meeting of the Faculty Club shortly before the examination period. His subject was "Problems of University Administration."

Phi Mu Sorority opened the rushing season with a tea in the chapter rooms yesterday.

The recent initiates of the "Styx" put on an entertainment consisting of original skits and fun at the Thomas Circle Club last week, for their fellow member and guests.

The Gamma Beta Pi's and friends will be the guests of Kitty Ruth at a bridge to be held at her home on Brandywine Street tomorrow evening.

The Alumni chapter of Chi Omega fraternity will hold its annual card party at the Hamilton Hotel on Saturday night of this week.

Louise Duboise, Bernadine Horn, Mildred Brashers, Billy Wright, Annie White Pearce, Adele Allison, Evelyn Fletcher, and "Billy" McKelvey were visitors at Annapolis for the gymkhana last week-end.

The Phi Sigs' first informal dance of the year was held at their house last Saturday night. Unusual features added to the novelty of the affair.

Sigma Nu fraternity held an informal dance at the chapter house on N Street last Saturday night.

Eva Lewis, Betty Jo Hopkins, and Margaret Moreland were seen at Wardman last Saturday night celebrating after exams.

One of the recent marriages of interest was that of Dolly Bealer, formerly a G. W. student, to Walter Brown Russell, of Georgia. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Russell is a member of Phi Mu sorority and her husband is an S. A. E. from Asheville, N. C. The couple will make their home at Asheville.

The S. P. E's held a smoker last night for members of the chapter and friends. Several songs by Lorenzo, professional singer, were an added feature.

The Chi Omega Alumni chapter will hold a novel stunt party at the home of Estelle Seigler on Friday night of this week for the active members and friends.

Alpha Delta Theta held a closed dance after exams at the home of Rita Denicke last Saturday night.

Sigma Chi fraternity gave a dance at the chapter house on Saturday, January 29.

Delta Zeta held a rush tea on February 1 in the sorority rooms.

Kappa chapter of Phi Kappa Lambda fraternity of the G. W. medical school announces the pledging of Isadore Rod, Joseph Dobken, and Sol Katzman.

The Phi Sigs held a smoker at the chapter house on Monday, January 31.

Mary Eunice Chisolm entertained Alpha Sigma Theta at a dance given at her home in Garret Park, Maryland last Saturday night.

The Delta Zetas are to hold a subscription dance in Corcoran Hall on the night of February 5.

Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity will hold a rush smoker on the night of February 3.

Messrs. Whyte and Trudgian's "Songs and Dances" enjoyed much favorable comment at the tea given by the Acacia fraternity last Sunday. It is rumored that these artists will appear in Big Time Vaudeville as soon as the contract can be procured.

The "Styx" celebrated the end of exams with a dance at the Thomas Circle Club last Friday night.

PANARETOFF SPEAKS TO INTERNATIONAL CLUB

Subject of Speech to Be Near East Relations

Hon. Stephen Panaretto, former Bulgarian minister to the United States and member of the Political Science Department, will address members of the International Relations Club on Tuesday, February 8, Corcoran Hall, 27. The speaker's subject will be "Near Eastern Relations Since the World War." Mr. Panaretto is well qualified to speak on such a subject, having for many years taught at Robert College in Constantinople.

Near Eastern relations are more or less of a mystery to the general American public. The Lausanne treaty which has caused much comment in the press and been the subject of hot debate in Congress, is little known. Mr. Panaretto will bring out some of the points in his address.

The International Relations Club is the successor to the Political Science Club. The new organization is affiliated with the International Relations Clubs of America. By virtue of this affiliation it has received some forty books on international subjects which can be borrowed by the members.

G. W. WILL ENTERTAIN CLASSICAL STUDENTS

George Washington University will entertain members of the Classical Association of the Atlantic States, May 6 and 7. The organization consists of people interested in Latin and Greek history, art, literature, and archaeology.

The annual meeting will be held in Corcoran Hall. Professor Elmer Louis Kayser is chairman of the local arrangement committee.

DOT AND CIRCLE ASKS CO-ED TEAM TO SHOOT

Undefeated Sharpshooters Invited to Important National Tourney by Rifle Fraternity

George Washington University's fair sharpshooters, who so far this season have been undefeated on the range, received an invitation this week to compete in the annual match of the Dot and Circle Club, the national rifle fraternity. This is the first time the Colonials have been included in this invitation affair, which is fired each year among the leading women's college teams of the country, and if they display the same brand of marksmanship in it that they have in their first three intercollegiate encounters, they stand a good chance of carrying off high honors.

In the first match of the season the G. W. squad was tied by the University of Maine, 498 to 498. This match will be refired on March 4, according to Ermytrude Valden, manager of the Buff and Blue team.

University of West Virginia was completely outclassed by them in their second encounter, the count being 499 to 476. Adding another point to their total to give them a perfect score in the third match, George Washington's firing squad registered 500 against the University of Michigan, only to have the match conceded to them by default.

University of California markswomen will test their skill against the Colonials in February. G. W. will journey to Drexel for a shoulder-to-shoulder match on February 4.

Peky Sharp says:

The campus is slowly reviving after the discomfiting interlude of examination week, with everyone back on the job again and ready for the second lap in the race for higher education.

A hue and cry has been raised against the proctoring of examinations. It has even been suggested that the mere presence of proctors tempts one to cheat just to see if it can be gotten away with.

Strange twist of human nature! Does the presence of the traffic policeman on the corner prompt you to speed across at 25 miles an hour? It does not. You recognize that if he were not there certain persons would break the rules, with consequent danger to the law abiding, and you accept him accordingly.

The whole question of cheating resolves itself to this: In any heterogeneous group there are bound to be some who do, and some who do not. The supervision is for the benefit of those who do not.

The honor system involves constituting each man his brother's keeper, and few of us care to be cast in that role. We cling to the idea that "peaching" on a fellow student is no duty for a gentleman.

The person who would cheat in an examination is the type who, laying aside the ethics of the question, would neither consider the consequences of detection nor weigh these in the balance against the slight advantage possibly to be gained by unfair methods.

It has been discovered that not a few professors indulge in the secret sport, at the expense of defenseless students, of compiling from year to year what is popularly known in faculty circles as a "Brown Derby" examination. As an aftermath of the recent orgy many additions no doubt have been made to these collections of comic misconceptions.

We can recall some errors on our own part which must have been uproarious when considered in a cold and critical light. But they were no laughing matter to us while racking our poor brain to remember that all poetry is simple, sensuous and passionate, or attempting to give a ten-word "resume" of the rise and fall of the Athenian Empire.

Nothing is more conducive to scholarly achievement than sorority scholarship requirements. It is estimated that if the hours spent in study by freshmen co-eds with Greek letter aspirations, were placed end to end, they would reach twice around the campus and up to the top floors of Buildings 9 and 10.

Why not a scholarship requirement for fraternities?

It seems that Columbian College Junior elections have upset all the dope by the triumph of a split ticket. This is always an encouraging sign, whether in national or campus politics. It means that at least a few people are doing their own thinking.

The little girls who used to have slurring epithets, such as "Carrot Top" and "Reds," hurled at them by small boys, have now grown up to be Titian beauties and have joined the new organized Red-Headed Club at G. W.

Co-eds who are unable to find any trace of red in their own locks are feeling distinctly slighted, and it is probable that Black-Headed, Brown-Headed and Blond-Headed clubs will be organized in protest.

Obviously, the blonds would enjoy an unfair advantage in the matter of previous publicity. It is certainly high time that someone called attention to the merits of red, brown and black hair.

DAVIS-ELKINS IS NEXT COURT FOE

Buff and Blue Quint Will Face
New York University
Saturday

COLONIALS IN FINE FETTLE

West Virginians Have Lost Only to Washington and Lee; Gothamites are Successful

Now that the Colonials have tasted victory again by virtue of their crushing defeat of Randolph-Macon last Saturday they are ready for all comers. Unless the unexpected occurs Davis-Elkins will send its quint here from West Virginia and the New York University dribblers will attempt to humble the locals. The former will be the guests tonight while the Gothamites will come snooping around looking for easy meat next Saturday. Both games will be played in the George Washington University Gymnasium.

Elkins, West Virginia, has been made famous by the excellent athletic teams representing Davis-Elkins College, which have met and beaten some of the best combinations in the country. This year is no exception, for they are regarded as having the strongest quint in the Panhandle State.

Last Saturday the Washington and Lee quint broke a string of consecutive Davis-Elkins victories which had run up to six. At that the Generals had difficulty in stopping the "Senators from the Mountains" by a 49-42 score.

Among the Southerners' victims were the Fairmont Teachers' College quint, 45-30 and the combination representing West Virginia Wesleyan, 38-26.

Pascover is Senators' Star

Perhaps the greatest reason for their success is in the person of one Pascover, who cavorts at right forward and slings the sphere through the hoop and down the cords from almost any angle, and from almost any reasonable distance.

The Senators' other forward, McKinley, who is incidentally the captain, is also a star, and from previous showings should lead the Colonial guards a merry chase.

The New York University quint has been going well lately also. They have been working on the theory that a bad start presages a good finish, for they lost their opener to the Montclair A. C. of New Jersey.

Since then the wearers of the Violet have smoothed out the kinks in their play and now present a first class front. Whether the speedy Colonials can penetrate that front is a question only to be decided by actual combat.

The New York quint mixes its dribbling and passing game, adjusting it to meet the occasion.

The visiting squad will be composed of two distinct teams which will probably alternate throughout the fray.

The starting lineup for the Gothamites will read: Roberts and Captain Werner, at forward; Trupin at center; and Reedy and Hawkins in the defense positions.

The Lemonites are expecting trouble from both the Davis-Elkins and New York University quints, but with the same determined spirit that predominated last Saturday night the Hatchettes should come off victor in one if not in both of the approaching encounters.

CO-ED DEBATERS WILL MEET OHIO WESLEYAN

Colonials Will Argue Subject of Uniform Divorce Laws

Co-ed debaters of the University will make their second appearance of the year, when they meet the Ohio Wesleyan team on February 4, in Corcoran Hall at 8 p. m.

The subject is: "Resolved, That Congress should enact uniform marriage and divorce laws." The George Washington team, consisting of Ruth Kernan, Marjorie Mothershead, Lucy Swanton, Florence Smith, and Alice Nesbit, will defend the negative.

The girl debaters won the only other debate they have participated in, defeating Cornell 2 to 1.

Freshman Quint Will Meet Alexandria High

Two Games Listed by Yearlings as Preliminaries Tonight and
Saturday

Out to add two games to its string of victories, the Freshman quint has booked two games for this week, to be played in the gym at 7:15 p. m. as preliminaries to the varsity games. Tonight, the local Y. M. C. A. team will be met, while on Saturday evening the Frosh will be host to the Alexandria High School five.

The "Y." team has been practicing regularly, and should give the yearlings some trouble in tonight's game.

The Alexandria High School tagmen have had a successful season thus far, and boast an enviable record of games won. Victories scored by the Virginians include Swavelly, Quantico Medicos, George Mason, Fredericksburg and Strayer's Business College.

CO-ED TOSSERS OPEN SEASON FRIDAY NIGHT

G. W. Sextet Meets Gallaudet at Kendall Green; Team Faces Hard Schedule

The Colonial co-ed basketball team will face Gallaudet in the opening game of their schedule on the Kendall Green court Friday, February 4, at 7:30 o'clock.

The Gallaudet sextet will have a slight advantage, having already played several games this season, but the George Washington girls hope to chalk up a victory to add to those they have made in past years. The squad seems to be in fine form, practices have been fast and snappy, and the training rules have done wonders for the speed and endurance of the team. Miss Hopkins has not yet announced the line-up, but will do so after tomorrow night's practice.

The schedule this year is a stiff one. Beside the second game with Gallaudet, which is slated for March 4, the Swarthmore College team, which G. W. has never defeated, comes here February 19 in another effort to conquer the Colonials. The squad journeys to Richmond February 26 to meet the fast Westhampton combination which was defeated last year in one of the closest games of the series. On March 7 the G. W. six plays William and Mary in the H Street Gym. They were defeated last year on the Williamsburg court and hope for a victory on their own field. Western Maryland will be played twice, here on February 12 and at Westminster March 12. This will be the first encounter with the Maryland team, which is reputed to be one of the best in the state.

The Westminster game will close the season, when swimming will succeed basketball in the interest of the feminine athletic enthusiasts.

HOSPITAL TO JOIN IN MEDICAL CENTER MOVE

When the hospitals have combined physically, the faculty of the George Washington University Medical School and the staffs of the hospitals will be reorganized in a manner to carry on their clinical and laboratory work in the new center under the most favorable conditions, both from the standpoint of hospital service and medical education.

The agreement was reached that George Washington University, through its Medical School, will direct all teaching in the hospitals. Moreover, the general conduct of the hospitals and the school will comply fully with the requirements of the council on medical education and hospitals of the American Medical Association and the American College of Surgeons. This will insure unity of operation, although each party to the amalgamation will continue its independent corporate existence and control. It has been explained.

"The basis of the agreement," said Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of George Washington University, "is the fact that the experience of many other cities has demonstrated the value of the establishment of great medical centers in which close and lasting associations have been formed between the work of theoretical medical instruction and the practical instruction afforded by the facilities for clinical teaching found in hospitals and dispensaries."

"For the University," continued Dr. Lewis, "its students will have constantly increasing facilities for clinical work."

FROSH QUINT BREAKS EVEN IN TWO STARTS

Defeat Mt. Vernon Five, 34 to 26; Succumb to Eastern High School Regulars

Displaying a mixture of good and bad basketball, the Freshman five broke even in two starts last week, when they defeated the snappy Mount Vernon Methodist Episcopal quint in a close game, 34-26, and lost to the Eastern High School regulars by a 36-17 score.

The game with the Mount Vernons on Saturday, January 22, was a thriller. To win it, the Frosh rallied in the second half, overcoming a two-point lead, and staged a fast passing game in the last quarter to gain a substantial margin, which they held until the final whistle.

This defeat was only the third game the visitors have lost this season, out of a total of 18 games played in the Sunday School league and elsewhere. Scoring honors for the game went to "Jake" Schaffert, Frosh forward, who accounted for six field goals and a foul.

Important classes in the Law School, two of which will use texts by Judge Wendell P. Stafford, and Col. Walter C. Clephane will also be As a preliminary to the Randolph-Macon game, on Saturday, January 29, the Eastern High School courtmen broke the Freshmen's winning streak, which had reached three in a row. The Easterners clearly outplayed the Frosh who, with a changed line-up, had little success with the passes which had worked so well in previous games. Having gained a 29-11 lead at the half, Eastern sent in substitutes during the latter part of the game.

The period for February Registration in the University began Monday, January 24. Applications are also being received this week, although since Tuesday, a late registration fee of $5 has been imposed, which was not charged before that date.

Although the number of matriculating students has been comparatively large thus far, Miss Kincannon does not consider it necessarily indicative of the final number, which is expected to equal the 532 of last year.

It is urged by the Registrar that all contemplated changes in programs be made as soon as possible. Delay in attending to these changes means much unnecessary confusion in the office records. No changes whatsoever may be made after February 10, without special permission.
